Drainage Improvement Underway At Landfill

Work on drainage improvement at the sanitary landfill site is proceeding today, as the contractor has begun preliminary work and the selectmen have instituted eminent domain proceedings to facilitate the project.

PAR Construction Co. of Boston, low bidder on the project, began work this week on the installation of pipes to carry the surface drainage away from the dump site and to clean pollutants from the Fish Brook area.

Monday night the selectmen voted to take the necessary easements over the objections of Robert Parks, an abutter to the dump site.

The Boston construction firm signed contracts with the town for the work Tuesday afternoon. Pipe has been brought to the site and preliminary work begun.

The low bid for the work was $17,683. Additional costs for the project have amounted to about $6,900, according to Town Manager J. Maynard Austin, and include surveying costs and consultants.

The project was approved at the 1971 town meeting which appropriated $40,000. The item was subject of town meeting debate again this year, when Atty. Irving Newman tried unsuccessfully to have the money rescinded and the project dropped.

The work is necessary to clear up pollution problems in the area, caused by the dump and which have led to the state ordering the site closed by October.

The town is attempting to get an extension of time on the life of the present dump site, and this work is part of its effort. The site location within the Fish Brook watershed area, a feeder for the town's water supply, must be corrected, whether the town continues to use the site as a dump or not.

As for the taking of easements, the selectmen moved ahead with the taking Monday night, following further conferring with Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien.

Parks informed the board that his land was agricultural and as such he should have been given a 30 day notice prior to any taking action.

The abutter also contended the town could not pipe water from the dump to a brook. He said there were two brooks involved and when Counsel O'Brien was asked for a legal view of this, informed Public Works Director Robert McQuade that the brooks lead into a single one, thus a single source.

The project calls for the installation of subdrains around the dump to carry water away from the refuse site.

No pipes will be located on Parks land. The easements are to allow water to flow over the land, which will be clean water.

Selectman Alan French, who viewed the property as late as last week, felt that Park's property would be improved by the drainage project.

Byrne Is FinCom Chairman

Francis J. Byrne was elected chairman of the Finance Committee, succeeding Dr. Albert J. Greenberg, at an organizational meeting of the board Tuesday night.

Arthur Heifetz was elected vice chairman and Edward L. Powers was re-elected secretary of the board.

Byrne has been a member of the FinCom for several years. Dr. Greenberg will remain a member of the board, but did not

Post Of Water Supt. To Be Reinstated

Retirement of Town Counsel Fredric S. O'Brien and creation of a new position, will bring some new faces to the municipal scene in the coming weeks.

The selectmen have approved the position of water and sewer superintendent for the public works department as recommended by Town Manager J. Maynard Austin. There has been no definite time set for filling the position, Town Manager J. Maynard Austin said this week.

Town Counsel O'Brien, who has served in that capacity since the inception of the town manager form of government in 1958, had indicated to the manager prior to town meeting that he did not care to be reappointed.

Counsel will continue his practice in Lawrence. His decision not to accept reappointment was based on the increasing burden of his office.

He has represented the town in many civil matters since his appointment in April of 1958 and is considered to be an expert in municipal law.

The selectmen met briefly in executive session Monday night to discuss the position with the town manager and to establish some guidelines for appointment of a new town counsel.

It was also at this session, that the new DPW position was discussed.

Town Manager Austin explained that with the increasing responsibilities within the department of public works, it was deemed necessary to reinstitute the water-sewer superintendency.

The post has been vacant since the retirement of Donald C. Bassett a few years ago. DPW Director Robert McQuade was appointed following Bassett's retirement.

The manager said that with the opening of the new water treatment plant and the increased mileage of water and sewer lines in the town, there appeared a definite need for supervision over the departments.

The increased responsibility and problems connected with solid waste has also made the position of DPW director more encompassing, the manager said.

He feels that to oversee the new water treatment plant will be a major responsibility, due to its equipment and sophisticated operations.

Another appointment pending, and due to be made soon, is that of health director.

Mrs. Elizabeth Nadeau R. N., will be retiring from that post shortly.

The board of health and town manager Austin have been working on the filling of the position.

Final Session Withstands Challenge

After a few anxious moments awaiting a quorum, Andover's 1972 Town Meeting, spring edition, completed its deliberations last Thursday with action on nine remaining articles. The total warrant listed 54.

The fifth session of the annual legislative convention, with a Bruins game as a counter attraction, started 15 minutes late, but finally wound up with an official count of 468 voters on hand.

The final nine articles fared about as expected. The voters rejected former Town Manager Richard E. Bowen's proposal for a housing bill of rights. A zoning proposal to pave the way for a condominium in West Andover was withdrawn. And the School Committee had its way by gaining authorization to spend $60,000 to hire an architect to plan renovations to the Doherty and Shawsheen Schools.

The meeting also appropriated $2,000 for unpaid bills, returned $44,440.81 in unspent appropriations and free case to the surplus revenue account and authorized the assessors to use up to $500,000 to reduce the 1972 tax rate and offset town meeting expenditures for this year. The present tax rate is $46 per $1,000 valuation.

The voters agreed to the transfer of 17,600 square feet of land on Gray road, at the North Andover line, to the Conservation Commission.

ASSISTING. Voter turnout was light for Tuesday's Presidential Preference election in Andover. Despite the light turnout, election officials spent long hours into the night tabulating the results. Here, in Precinct Two, Mrs. Hector Pattullo, assists Mrs. Mary Sullivan, showing her the computer punch card method. Jack Lussier is the warden in this precinct.

Democrats Support McGoverns

Andover's Democrats turned out in proportionately exemplary numbers in Tuesday's Presidential Preference election to support the candidacy of Sen. George McGovern.

A slim total turnout of 3,740 participated in the election for which over 13,000 were eligible, according to Town Clerk Elden R. Salter, who was still tabulating the results of the lengthy ballot late Wednesday morning.

Of the total turnout there were 2,538 Democratic ballots cast and 1212 Republican. Included in the total were 82 absentee ballots, of which 62 were Democrats.

Town Clerk Salter, noting it was difficult to tell exactly, observed that there was a substantial youthful turnout at the polls, with the anticipated support going to the McGovern candidacy.

Statewide, McGovern also captured the Commonwealth's preference over Maine Senator Edmund Muskie. Muskie trailed substantially in the Andover tally to McGovern, gaining only 464 votes.

The Democratic turnout produced an upset, as Atty. Patricia McGovern of Lawrence, topped Margaret Minahan for the post of state committeewoman for the fifth district. Miss McGovern, 29, who was sworn in as a lawyer earlier this week received the support of the Andover voters, 878 to 486. Miss McGovern also received substantial support in Lawrence. The towns of Billerica and Tewksbury, also in the district, had not completed tabulations, but the margin in Andover and Lawrence was sufficient for victory.

James J. O'Neil, former Lawrence alderman, was re-elected state committeeman receiving Lawrence support and a 700 to 527 edge in the Andover voting over John F. Rourke, also of Lawrence.

Republican Paul W. Cronin received the Andover support as state committeeman, 649 to 171 over Atty. Daniel Leonard of Lawrence. Cronin, who is seeking Congressman Morse's congressional seat, was also chosen a

A generous smile and a laugh are the trademarks of Palmieri.

A sophomore at AHS, she recently been elected by the student body as the AHS Representative to the Regional Student Advisory Council. The purpose of this board is to review different policies of each school and determine the feasibility of their use in other communities. One item that will certainly be discussed is the open concept. Many schools from Greater Boston area will be represented. The meetings will be held once every month. The location of the May 4th, April 27 gathering will be at the North Andover Regional Office from 9 a.m. to noon. She will be excused from school during this time.

Why did Ann Palmieri run for this office? A modest grin appeared on her face. "I thought this would be a committee that would do something beneficial to the school."

Politics is nothing new to her. She was elected Student Council president at the East Junior High during her freshman year. This year, she's an active home representative in the student government at the high school. Yet no one could possibly label her as a "typical young politician." The genuine sparkle in her eyes and her easy laughter are a testament to her. A sympathetic and ready to help, she is truly concerned about her fellow classmates.

will pair the Giants against the Mets in the National League lid-lifter.

The full day's activities will begin at 11 a.m. when all boys on all teams are asked to report to the field for picture taking.

The opening ceremonies at 12 noon will include the flag raising and invocation, and then it's "Play Ball" at 12:30.

Beginning next Monday both the American and National Leagues will start their weekly play.

Games will be staged every day of the week except Sunday, with the American League competing at the South School diamond and the National League at the Playstead Field. Weekday games start at 6 p.m.

Each team will play a 15-game schedule, meeting all other league clubs three times during the regular campaign.

The best-of-three Town Championship playoff between the American and National League pennant winners will be held in late June. The Cardinals are two-time defending town titlists.

St. Robert's In Dramatic Tourney Win

Kevin Fogarty swished in a 2-foot set shot with two seconds remaining in an action packed game to propel St. Robert's of West Andover to a dramatic 27-25 victory over St. Michael's of North Andover in the finals of the Greater Lawrence Jewish Community Center Junior basketball tournament Sunday.

It was a climactic finish to an emotionally charged game.

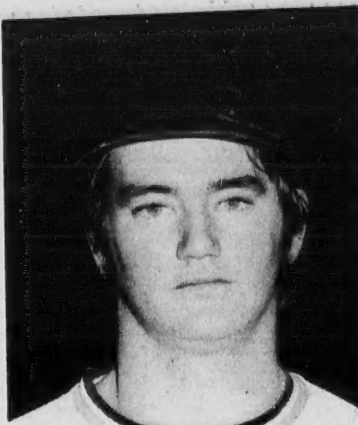

St. Robert's led after the first period, 5-2 as both teams applied tenacious defensive pressure.

St. Michael's full court press caused many turnovers by St. Robert's in the second period but Greg Nicastro's twisting layup at the buzzer kept the victors in a 14-13 lead at half time.

The North Andover five moved to an 18-17 advantage after the third period as neither of the evenly matched teams would wilt from the breakneck pace and pressure.

With less than two minutes left in the contest, St. Michael's enjoyed a 25-21 lead and appeared to have victory in their grasp. However, Tommy Saunders of St. Robert's on clever feeds to T. J. Caveney, dropped in two quick baskets tying the score and setting the stage for Fogarty's clinching basket.

Fogarty led the scoring parade for St. Robert's with three hoops and a field goal for seven points.

William E. Moriarty, '74, is a catcher on the 1972 Bates College varsity baseball team. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Moriarty of Andover.

Ricky Collins and Tommy Saunders had five points each. Eddie Collins finished out the scoring for the victors.

Playing consistent basketball on defense for the winners were Chris Fortune, Mike Carroll, Owen Keegan and John McNamara.

Sansouci was the rebounding power for the losers and led all scorers with nine points. Erley gunned in seven points while McGuire and Lumb notched two points each.

Babe Ruth Roster Selected

The roster of the 1972 Andover Babe Ruth baseball team was selected earlier this week, following several tryout sessions at the Playstead.

Boys chosen for the club were Steve Fabiani, Steve Galvin, Joe Grillo, Thom Lawler, John Lyons, Glenn Lefebvre, Paul McIntyre, Dave Mosher, Joe Pasquale, Dave Rindone, Glenn Verrette, Keith Verrette and Jeff Winters.

Fabiani, Galvin, McIntyre, Mosher and the Verrette brothers are all returnees from last year's team, which posted an 11-10 regular-season record to place Andover in the league playoffs for the 18th straight year.

The Andover squad is a member of the eight-team Greater-Lawrence Babe Ruth League. Other clubs in the loop are two-time defending champ Methuen, North Andover, North Lawrence, Tower Hill, South Lawrence East, Prospect Hill and South Lawrence West.

The 1972 schedule will include 21 games, with the season slated to begin on May 31 and run through the final week of July.

Warriors 9-2 Losers In Methuen

Andover High dropped its Merrimack Valley Conference opener to a strong Methuen club, 9-2 Monday afternoon at Methuen.

The loss made the Warriors overall season total 1-1 having shutout G.L. Regional Vocational School, 5-0 last Friday.

The Warriors opened strong, scoring their only two runs in the opening frame, but from there on, Jeff Mackor, Ranger hurler, held the Warriors to a total of five hits and struck out nine.

Mark Marreo tripled and Charlie Wiggs belted a double in the opening inning accounting for the only Andover scoring threats.

Methuen, a favorite to lead the conference, now has a 4-0 record.

The Warriors are at home to Dracut today, travel to Burlington Monday and meet Tewksbury at home next Wednesday.

In their formal season opener, Friday, April 21, the Warriors combined three first inning runs with shutout pitching by Pete Dion to top Greater Lawrence Regional Vocational School, 5-0.

Dion had the Reggie's hitting on the ground as attested by 13 putouts by first sacker Jeff Alexander. He struck out four and walked two in going the route.

In the opening frame, Charlie Wigg's doubled to score John Brennan and Mark Morreo. Chris Bresnahan who had singled scored on an error.

The Alexander brothers combined for a single tally in the third inning when Steve doubled and was singled home by Jeff.

The Andover team will have a new manager this year, as New York native Joseph Grillo has succeeded George Lefebvre.

Lefebvre, a former standout athlete and coach at Lawrence Central Catholic, stepped down this year because of various other commitments. Lefebvre led the Andover team into the playoffs three straight years.

Returning as coaches this season are Rick Harrison and Bob Driscoll, both of whom have headed teams in various youth leagues for several years.

The coaches of the Andover team wish to remind all boys who tried out and were not selected that they may now try out for the Senior Little League this weekend.

The Babe Ruth team's schedule and results of league games will be carried by the TOWNSMAN throughout the summer.

Fault is the easiest thing in the world to find.

Ts'ai Lun's Gift

(to the spirit world)

Back around the year 105 Ts'ai Lun, a functionary of the Han Dynasty, whipped up the world's first paper money. The Emperor liked the idea but the public did not.

Ts'ai Lun was hurt so he spread the word of his death and staged a sham funeral. People burned their leather money for the recently departed to assure a warm welcome to the spirit world in those days. Ts'ai Lun pulled a switch . . . he had his family burn much paper money in lieu of the real thing, then at the height of the ceremony he popped out of his coffin and proved that the ersatz money had really passed as the real thing, making his point.

If you want the real thing and you DON'T have money to burn on furniture, then you owe yourself a visit to the Studio Shoppe! We'll also show you some of our new Chinese Furniture and we promise to leave you plenty of money to burn!

Fourth Annual WESTern Roundup Due On May 25

On Thursday evening, May 25, the Student Government of the Andover West Junior High School will sponsor its fourth annual WESTern Bar-B-Que and Educational Round-Up in conjunction with the school's annual Open House program. This year the entire program will be conducted with an "Americana" theme.

Arrangements have been completed to serve a barbecued chicken dinner in the courtyard of the school with continuous serving from 5 to 7:30 p.m. Last year over 1000 persons were fed during the evening and this year plans have been made to handle an even larger number. Committees have been formed to develop the Americana theme in a Western motif to provide the proper atmosphere to enhance the open-pit barbecuing.

Reservations for the dinner are now being accepted at the West Junior High School on Shawsheen Road. No tickets will be available after May 19.

The Educational Round-Up aspect of the program will feature various samples of student work displayed throughout the school building. Highlights of the Round-Up will include numerous art works, industrial arts projects and homemaking projects of the students. Also featured will be foreign language skits, science seminars, and many other subject area displays. A physical education exhibition will be presented during the evening in the school gymnasium.

The climax of the evening will be the presentation of the Annual Musical Clubs Concert in the school auditorium. With approximately 500 students participating the program will include both vocal and instrumental selections featuring "Americana" favorites.

The WESTern Bar-B-Que and Educational Round-Up is open to the public and the student leaders of the West Junior High School hope that all townspeople will take advantage of this opportunity to visit their schools and participate in a very enjoyable evening.

In 1971, drinking helped 500 to 600 of the state's 900 deaths, says Massachusetts Council spokesman Thomas ton.

"You may have a few c and get home -- if there emergency," he states. "there's an emergency, you meet it."

The Safety Council is the active force behind seven identical bills which would significantly lower the level of intoxication required to be considered a drunk driver in Massachusetts.

The Legislature's Judicial Committee is currently studying the flock of bills aimed at cutting the maximum alcohol blood level from .15 percent to .10 percent.

Just what this would mean with size and weight.

a 120-pound woman under the proposed legislation convicted of drunken driving three drinks in an hour. A pound man would have to swallow six drinks in an hour to get much alcohol in his blood.

But now, safety experts concerned over the fact that one can take as many as three drinks in three hours, get the wheel and still not be a drunken driver.

In some European countries and in Utah and Canada, the limit is .08 percent. Two to five drinks depend on size and weight -- and the National Safety Council says these strict laws have saved lives.

In 1963, the federal government recommended .10 percent as the drunken driving standard, charging that one of every five drivers on American roads were "drinking" but "driving."

A U.S. Department of Transportation expert, speaking at the annual Alumni Day ceremonies, argued that a law whose blood alcohol concentration is .10 percent has eight times the chance of getting involved in a fatal crash than does the current .15 percent standard.

And if the driver's blood alcohol concentration is .15 percent, official has told Massachusetts lawmakers, he has 25 times the chance of getting involved in a fatal accident than does the current .10 percent standard.

The Legislature is hard on the Safety Council's argument. Last year, a bill similar to the one proposed passed the House by six votes and failed in the Senate by a 11-11 tie.

Mr. Whelton feels that the Safety Council's main task will be to convince citizens and their representatives that "guys like me" -- the so-called "drunkers" -- will not be threatened by tighter drunken driving laws.

"If you're high enough to be stopped for and convicted of drunken driving" under the proposal, Mr. Whelton says, "it's probably happened on a night. We're not after the drinkers but the people who are alcoholics and who won't stop."

"Conservatively," he estimates, excessive drinking causes half to two-thirds of the 25,000 traffic fatalities and a half million injuries each year.

Beacon Hill Observations

By Bill Kirtz

In 1971, drinking helped cause 500 to 600 of the state's 900 traffic deaths, says Massachusetts Safety Council spokesman Thomas Whelton.

"You may have a few drinks and get home -- if there's no emergency," he states. "But if there's an emergency, you can't meet it."

The Safety Council is the most active force behind seven nearly-identical bills which would significantly lower the level of intoxication required to convict Massachusetts residents of drunken driving.

The Legislature's Judiciary Committee is currently studying the flock of bills aimed at cutting the maximum alcohol blood level from .15 percent to .10 percent.

Just what this would mean varies with size and weight.

A 120-pound woman might, under the proposed legislation, be convicted of drunken driving after three drinks in an hour. A 180-pound man would have to swallow six drinks in an hour to get that much alcohol in his blood.

But now, safety experts are concerned over the fact that someone can take as many as nine drinks in three hours, get behind the wheel and still not be tabbed a drunken driver.

In some European countries, and in Utah and Canada, the maximum level is .08 percent -- or two to five drinks depending on size and weight -- and the National Safety Council says that these strict laws have saved lives.

In 1963, the federal government recommended .10 percent as the drunken driving standard, charging that one of every 50 drivers on American roads is not merely "drinking" but "drunk."

A U.S. Department of Transportation expert, speaking in favor of the bills, argued that a driver whose blood alcohol concentration is .10 percent has eight times the chance of getting involved in a fatal crash than does his non-drinking counterpart.

And if the driver's blood alcohol concentration is .15 percent, the official has told Massachusetts lawmakers, he has 25 times the chance of getting involved in a fatal accident than does the non-drinker.

The Legislature is hardly cool to the Safety Council's arguments. Last year, a bill similar to the ones proposed passed the House by six votes and failed only because of an 11-11 Senate deadlock.

Mr. Whelton feels that advocates' main task will be to convince citizens and their representatives that "guys like you and me" -- the so-called "social drinkers" -- will not be threatened by tighter drunken driving laws.

"If you're high enough to be stopped for and convicted of drunken driving" under the new proposal, Mr. Whelton argues, "it's probably happened on other nights. We're not after the social drinkers but the people who are alcoholics and who won't admit it."

"Conservatively," he estimates, excessive drinking caused half to two-thirds of the nation's 25,000 traffic fatalities and one and a half million injuries last year.

Tests have shown that drivers fall to perform adequately in an emergency situation with .10 percent of liquor in their system, with reaction time impaired at the .05 percent level.

The most dramatic instance of drunken driving laws affecting traffic safety has come in Britain, where police stop drivers at random and convict them for drunken driving if they flunk a breathalyzer test.

These widely-condemned spot checks may have cut late-hours joviality, but they've also cut traffic fatalities. And although this tack appeals to the Safety Council, Mr. Whelton believes the Massachusetts public would never accept it.

"There should be prosecution only if a policeman feels there's reasonable cause to stop a car," he concludes. "What happens in Britain couldn't happen here."

Artic soils are unfavorable for plants because they are poorly drained and aerated, and deficient in nutritive salts.

76 Trombones To Sound Entrance Of Music Man At Andover High

Professor Harold Hill, Joe Normandy, praises the abilities of Mrs. Eulalie Shinn, played by Mary Ellen King during a scene in Music Man, this year's musical presentation by Andover High school. Looking on are Jane Ketchen as Mrs. Dunlop, Karen Gould as Mrs. Alma Hix, Carol Jones as Mrs. Squires and Nancy Hood as Ethel Toffelmier.

The Barber Shop Quartet for Music Man is composed of Charles Peaver as J. C. Squires, David Wright as Ewart Dunlop, Kenneth Girard as Oliver Hix and Blaine Randall as Olin Britt.

Sally O'Reilly, Dana Gould, Darlene Meuse, Tim Driscoll and Nancee Chalifour go through a dance routine in one of the scenes from Music Man. The three girls are choreographers for the Andover High school musical.

Working on set designs for the annual high school musical are Kevin Meuse, Tom Sullivan, Joe Wholley, Rickey Gallant and Mary Ellen King.

Miss Debra DeQuattro provides the musical accompaniment for the lilting musical presentation.

The Music Man by Meredith Wilson, and directed by Edward P. Grigoli, will be presented at the West Junior High School Auditorium on May 10, 11, 12, and 13 starting time 8 p.m.

The sparkling musical has 9 scenes in the first act, and 7 scenes in the second act.

Joseph Normandy, III, a senior has the lead "Harold Hill" and Sarah Bragdon also a senior has the female lead as "Marion Paroo" the librarian.

This is the type of show that will have the audience tapping their feet to the rhythm of the music and humming or whistling the songs days after they have seen the show.

The Music Man will be presented on May 9 at 7:15 for students only, no adults admitted.

Tickets for all performances may be purchased from any member of the show, or by calling the Music Department at the high school any school day.

On Friday, April 28, tickets will be available at the Merrimack Valley National Bank, Andover, from 3 to 8 p.m.

Joe Normandy, as Professor Harold Hill, works some of his uncanny charm on Anne Gerraughty, who portrays the part of Mrs. Paroo.

district delegate 977 to 869 over Lydia Lee Howard of Lowell.

It appeared that Elizabeth Dean of Lawrence would be the new state committeewoman from the fifth district, defeating Helen Giarrusso, also of Lawrence and a member of Cong. Morse's staff.

The Andover vote gave Mrs. Dean, 413 votes to 254 for Mrs. Giarrusso.

Cronin was also re-elected to the Republican town committee.

The tabulation in Andover, done by computer, then requiring transfer of absentee ballots and written votes to a master sheet became cumbersome due to the abundance of Democrat delegates.

While the computer returns were processed speedily, Town Clerk Salter, Mrs. Annetta Wrigley and Registrar Harry Sellers spent well into the early hours of Wednesday morning transferring the figures to the master sheets and justifying the total returns.

They returned to the task throughout the day Wednesday.

Despite the difficult and arduous work required by the complicated ballot, Andover was one of the first towns to complete the overall tabulation, due to the computer operation.

On the Republican ballot, Andover voters gave 905 votes to President Nixon, 189 to Paul N. McCloskey, Jr. and 29 to John M. Ashbrook.

The Democrats gave 41 written votes to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy on their ballots.

Other Democratic Presidential aspirants finished as follows as far as Andover was concerned: Shirley Chisholm, 93; Edward T. Coll, three; Vance Hartke, one; Hubert Humphrey, 105; Henry M. Ancillary Use Is Approved

Old Colony Investment Trust, owners of the tennis club building on the grounds of the Sheraton Rolling Green Motor Inn, has been granted a special permit by the board of appeals for use of the building for ancillary purposes.

At a hearing held March 2, the zoning board of appeals was informed that the request was based on possible use by the motel during seasons when indoor tennis would not be played in the building.

At these times, the area could be used for such things as convention, trade or art shows, theatrical or musical productions or such use incidental to a motel convention center activity. The board determined that such use can be granted under provisions of the bylaws and granted the permit.

The Tennis Courts at the West Junior High and Andover High Schools will be used Monday through Friday 8 a.m. - 4 p.m. by the students. This will apply from April 24 through June 9.

Seniors Get Life Through

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

A pilot internship program sending 12 Andover High seniors out to work in community institutions for the final academic year of the year.

A dozen high school students are working at least six hours a day in Andover's municipal government, health care institutions, Employment Security, Welfare offices, and radio station through the new intern program.

The program is offered as a credit course by the social studies department, and is organized and directed by the Andover Senior Community Resource Center high school.

Claus Dengler, Center coordinator, said that if the nine pilot program is deemed successful, it will be expanded next year to include more students and institutions. Several students could be rotated through different academic quarters to provide a steady flow of interns working for and learning from community institutions.

The stated purpose of the intern program is to give students an opportunity to become familiar with some of society's institutions, their functions and the way they operate. The institution can benefit by receiving the student service, without pay; it is hoped that mutual benefit could be achieved through increased understanding between students and the community.

Dengler said that the program differs from a vocational one, in that job placement training for specific jobs is a primary concern; rather, the emphasis is on learning the various functions of the institution, learning through its work.

Andy Sutcliffe started this as an intern in the Town where he will work first for Planning Board, Anne Edwards and Lisa Bernardin are high interns at Lawrence General Hospital; So are Kay Corrison, Alison McGoff, who will exchange places in four weeks with Pierre and Paul Wirtz, Hughes Nursing Home.

Marian Conlon is spending first half of the quarter at the Employment Security office in Lawrence. At half she will trade places with Norwegian AFS student Bakke and Carol Maynard have both begun at the W Office in Lawrence.

Steve Olney and Deborah are now learning the broad ropes at Phillips Academy WPA-FM; beginning May 1 will be high school intern Lawrence radio station.

Students must have permission from their parents and teachers since they attend no classes during the 8 or 9 of the program. Each is required to meet once a week with supervising teacher, to discuss experiences and problems; must keep a journal of his/her institutional work experience and submit a term paper at the end of the program. They must also evaluate the educational benefits and to gain the 1.25 social credits.

Dengler said the 12 intern pilot program all have credits for graduation already.

Seniors Get Glimpse Of Life Through Internship

(A TOWNSMAN News Feature)

A pilot internship program is sending 12 Andover High seniors out to work in community institutions for the final academic quarter of the year.

A dozen high school students now are working at least six hours a day in Andover's municipal government, health care institutions, Employment Security and Welfare offices, and radio stations, through the new intern program.

The program is offered as a credit course by the social studies department, and is organized and directed by the Andover School-Community Resource Center at the high school.

Claus Dengler, Center coordinator, said that if the nine week pilot program is deemed successful, it will be expanded next year to include more students and more institutions. Several students could be rotated through different academic quarters to provide a steady flow of interns working for and learning from given community institutions.

The stated purpose of the intern program is to give students an opportunity to become familiar with some of society's institutions, their functions and the way they operate. The institution can benefit by receiving the students' service, without pay; it is also hoped that mutual benefit occurs through increased understanding between students and the rest of society.

Dengler said that the intern program differs from a vocational one, in that job placement and training for specific jobs are not primary concerns; rather, the emphasis is on learning the various functions of the institution, by circulating through its work phases.

Andy Sutcliffe started this week as an intern in the Town Hall, where he will work first for the Planning Board. Anne Edelstein and Lisa Bernardin are high school interns at Lawrence General Hospital; So are Kay Corry and Alison McGoff, who will exchange places in four weeks with Francois Pierrat and Paul Wirtz, now at Hughes Nursing Home.

Marian Conlon is spending the first half of the quarter working at the Employment Security Office in Lawrence. At half-point, she will trade places with Norwegian AFS student Bente Bakke and Carol Maynard, who have both begun at the Welfare Office in Lawrence.

Steve Olney and Deborah Webb are now learning the broadcasting ropes at Phillips Academy's WPAA-FM; beginning May 15, they will be high school interns at a Lawrence radio station.

Students must have permission from their parents and teachers; since they attend no regular classes during the 8 or 9 weeks of the program. Each is required to meet once a week with his supervising teacher, to discuss experiences and problems; each must keep a journal of his institutional work experience and present a term paper at the end, to evaluate the educational benefits, and to gain the 1.25 social studies credits.

Dengler said the 12 interns in the pilot program all have enough credits for graduation already, but they have chosen to continue many of their present high school courses through an option that will be a permanent part of the program - independent study arrangement with the individual teachers.

High school authorities do not intend to restrict the intern program to scholastic high achievers, but see it as a motivating program to students at all levels of achievement, who may wish to plan their schedules ahead carefully so as to take advantage of the intern program, if it turns out to be the educational success the high school authorities hope.

Dengler said that the response of most community institutions contacted has been a most rewarding aspect of the program. "They have understood the educational aims, and have been willing to go through the extra work of arranging to circulate the interns through the work phases of their institutions to get the maximum educational benefits."

The students, in turn, may be able to bring fresh concentration and energy to some of these phases. At the Hughes Nursing Home, for example, students will try to plan and implement recreational and rehabilitative programs to lift the torpor that engulfs many aged infirm patients. The interaction between aged patients and young interns has possibilities for re-kindled interests, for the old people, and broader understanding 15 of the human condition and the problems of dealing with it, for the young.

Byrne, as the new chairman, reported that the FinCom would have a new policy regarding meetings. He said the board would have a regularly scheduled meeting on the last Thursday of every month.

In the past the meetings have been more or less scheduled at the discretion of the chairman when business was urgent with regard to transfer of reserve funds or a town meeting was pending.

An Educational Awakening

What was the greatest benefit of the high school English department's trip to England? Ask English teacher Mary Ann Johnson, whose Shakespeare Seminar group was the nucleus of the group. "It helped students to broaden their view of reality. It was an awakening, a realization that life is not just as it is in Andover."

"Arriving at Oxford University was a shock to them. There is great beauty, the majestic buildings, the learning, the many treasures, like the Shakespeare Folios in the Bodleian Library. Yet it is devoid of the material goods they know. We slept in a dormitory in one of the Oxford colleges, under 25 foot-high ceilings - on straw mattresses! People there must depend on only a little gas jet for heat and hot water. That was a learning experience."

The group visited Oxford for two days, Stratford an Avon and then spent seven days in London, with teachers Johnson and John McCusker, from the social studies department.

Another surprise was the emerald green, completely agricultural quality of the countryside, and the absence of billboards, litter, urban sprawl."

"Unspoiled" and "unpolluted" were the impressions of students and teachers alike. They say that the English keep their agricultural lands and the inner "service city" free from industrial expansion, which is confined to special areas, or to the outer rings of London, for example. London itself is kept as a cultural, political, financial, commercial and religious center. Students report that they saw no litter, anywhere. And gardens! Everyone in England has a glorious garden, even the tiniest houses in the city.

The seven days in London were crowded with impressions, historical and cultural sights and sounds, and three plays. Students visited Westminster and St. Paul's Cathedral, and the Tower of London; There they saw the crown jewels, and the huge cleaver and chopping block where 17th and 18th century executions took place, royally ordered, and some royally endured. They visited Windsor Castle, where the Queen's mother is in residence, and Henry VIII's beautifully preserved Hampton Court.

A point of interest that merited two visits was Madame Tussaud's Original Wax Museum, with its eerily realistic figures of history's famous people. Downstairs, the "Chamber of Horrors" showed them the actual guillotine blade that cut off the heads of Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette and hundreds of nobles of France.

A chartered bus and a guide took the Andover students and a group from Woburn High School on most of their sightseeing, for the Andover trip was part of a giant economy-sized package that took 3,000 American students on educational tours of England last week. They suffered some typical schedule changes, but got extra-low rates, so that several Andover youngsters were able to earn their own way, after plans were first made last fall.

A special Andover feature was planned by Andover's West Junior High Principal, William Hart, on sabbatical leave in London. Hart planned a visit to his children's Catholic day school in the suburb of East Finchley, where British administrators and students welcomed the Americans. Here the Andover students received another illuminating shock; British students expressed surprise that their American counterparts could get away for a trip abroad at this time. They had assumed that everyone in America was completely involved in the Vietnam war effort.

Trooper Fired Upon

State Trooper John J. Dushame of Andover, attached to the Leominster State Police Barracks, was uninjured after being fired upon near a wooded area in Harvard.

Trooper Dushame had chased and stopped a car for speeding on Route 2. The trooper was heading back to his cruiser, according to state police, when the man ran behind the car and fired four shots from a hand gun.

All the shots missed and the man headed into a wooded area initiating a widespread search by state and Ayer police in the Lancaster Harvard area of Routes 2 and 495.

The trooper, the son of North Andover Police Patrolman and Mrs. Frank H. Dushame, resides on Essex Street.

Treasurer Cautions Bond Holder

Jesse L. Adams, Assistant Director, U.S. Savings Division, The Department of Treasury, has cautioned bondholders of Massachusetts about involved in chain-letter schemes "to get rich" with Bonds.

Treasurer Cautions Bond Holders

Jesse L. Adams, Acting Na- tional Director, U.S. Savings Bonds Division, The Department of the Treasury, has cautioned residents of Massachusetts about becoming involved in chain-letter or similar schemes "to get rich" with Savings Bonds.

Many years' experience with chain schemes indicate that most participants lost their entire in- vestment, according to Mr. Adams. This outcome is inevitable because the supply of interested persons is soon exhausted. The greater the amount to be invested, the sooner the saturation point is reached.

Banks and other issuing agencies are therefore authorized by the Treasury to refuse applica- tions for Bonds where there is reason to believe they will be used in a chain-letter scheme.

Chain-letter schemes which use the mails to facilitate their pur- pose are considered by the Postal Service as a violation of the postal lottery and fraud laws.

Further, postal officials have warned that, even though the lists of participants are not circulated in the mails, this does not alter the illegality of the operation since, usually, the Bonds or other evi- dence of participation in the schemes are mailed. There is also the possibility that the scheme may violate local anti-lottery laws, even if the mails are not used in any way.

In addition to the fact that chain- letter schemes violate Federal law, the Treasury believes that the public should be made aware that such schemes -- which are essentially get - rich - quick endeavors -- do a distinct dis- service to the Savings Bond Program. Rather than encour- aging persons to make genuine investments, they create the illusion that participants are both aiding their Government and them- selves. Even in the rare case where an individual receives a large return, it is likely that he would quickly redeem the Bonds, thereby placing a further burden on the Treasury.

Individuals who purchase Savings Bonds for such chain- letter schemes, and who discover that participation may violate certain laws and regulations, may request a refund, using Treasury Form PD-2966. CAR TALK

DRIVERS CAN REDUCE POLLUTION

Auto manufacturers have taken significant strides in reducing air pollution from automobile engines, but there is much the car owner can do to help.

For example, studies show that a 5 percent incidence of spark plug misfiring can increase the emission of pollutants by 300 percent. Also harmful emission can be reduced by an average of 55 percent after a tuneup. Pollution is caused from the incompletely burned gasoline which is minimized in a tuned engine.

In addition to the elements of tuneup, another key item is the PCV valve. It should be changed every 12,000 miles or every tuneup. If a PCV valve becomes plugged or worn, it is useless. So let's be ecologists as well as good drivers and strive for clean air. At the same time, you'll save yourself some costly engine repairs later on.

Hard starting and poor gas mileage could mean your car is overdue for a tune-up. And you can depend on us to give it the care it deserves. All service and workmanship guaranteed. Full line of Mobil products. Complete auto repair, towing and road service. TOM'S DEN ROCK SERVICE, Route 114 opposite Holiday Inn, No. Andover, Tel: 687-9157. 24-Hr. Ice Cube Vending.

To Combine Vacation Bible School

For the past several years, the Andover Baptist Church has held a Vacation Bible School for all children between the ages of 4 and 12. Plans are in the making for VBS 1972.

This year's school will be sponsored jointly by the Andover Baptist Church and the South Church of Andover.

Each morning will begin with songs and a story time. Bible study is part of each day, not as the "same old school stuff" but combined with crafts and visual aids to bring Jesus into everyday living. All is presented in a way to appeal to the children of each age group.

An outdoor picnic is always a part of the school as well as "picture-taking" time. Joy and friendship abound at VBS, with everything planned to make the children's morning enjoyable.

There's more room this year. The dates are June 19 thru the 30th from 9:30 to 11:30 a.m. No registration fee.

St. Augustine's Plans Par-Fam '72 May 6

Par-Fam '72, the tenth annual parish reunion of St. Augustine's Church, will be held, May 6, at Central Catholic Auditorium, beginning with dinner at 6:30 p.m. Due to inadvertance, the date was incorrectly reported last week to the TOWNSMAN.

In Production

The Drama Club of Northern Essex Community College, will present its production of "The Wizard of Oz," for children in the Haverhill, Newburyport and Plaistow, N. H. areas.

FESTIVAL HIGHLIGHT. The New Black Eagle Jazz Band will highlight the annual Festival of the Arts presentation at the Unitarian-Universalist church. Their presentation of New Orleans jazz will be presented Friday at 8:30 p.m.

Jazz Band Festival Highlights

The New Black Eagle Jazz Band highlights a week of continuing activities in the annual Festival of the Arts at the Unitarian-Universalist Church on Route 133, Andover.

The band, appearing Friday night at 8:30, is a Boston-based group of traditionalists whose specialty is New Orleans Jazz.

This evening the Silversmith Club of Andover High School will demonstrate silversmithing at 7:30. A display of the work done by members of the Club has been at the Art Show all week.

And on Sunday, the Emerson College Speech Choir "Chorica" will take part in the 10:30 morning worship service with the Rev. Richard M. Woodman, minister of the church. The choir is directed by Miss Natalie Lombard.

Following the service and a coffee hour, the annual Go Fly a Kite celebration will be held on the lawn of the church. For the third year, church friends and members of all ages will bring their kites, and their sandwiches, for an afternoon of fun. Raymond Hopkinson of Bailey Road is chairman of the event.

The Art Show, now in its seventh year, will conclude Saturday - the show is open free each day from 2 - 5 p.m. and 7 - 9 p.m. until then. Friday night's performance by the New Eagle Jazz Band brings to Andover one of the most highly respected jazz groups in the area. Although its members are professionals in other fields, they have kept together the traditions of King Oliver, Louis Armstrong and other New Orleans jazz musicians. The Boston-based group recently appeared at Lennie's on the Turnpike and played at the New Orleans Jazz Festival last spring.

The band is led by Tony Pringle, an English born cornetist, who is a design engineer at Honeywell. Other members are Stan Vincent, trombone, of Needham; president of Vincent-Curtis Co.; Stan McDonald, clarinet and soprano saxophone, library director at Framingham State College; Dr. Eli Newberger, tuba, pediatrician at Boston Children's Hospital Medical Center; Bob Pillsbury, piano, a practicing and teaching psychologist in Acton; Peter Bullis of Marblehead, banjo, partner in Finegold and Bullis, architects; and Dr. Cees S. Pameljer, drums, a Stoneham resident and dentist at Boston University Medical Center.

The group will play in concert from 8:30 to 12:30. Refreshments will be available during the evening, and those attending will have the opportunity to visit the gallery.

Davis Weston of Dracut is chairman for the jazz evening.

This year's best in show award went to John Russo of Wilmington for his sculpture, "Rear End Bumper."

Other awards were: Oils, first, "The Couple," Bernard Greenside, 41 Ohio Ave., Lawrence; second, "Ninety-nine," John R. Petralia, 3 Cornish St., Ext., Methuen; third, "Evolving," Janvier Miller, 40 Gray Road; Watercolor, first "Turbot Creek," by Corinne Staid, 10 Nancy Circle, "Vermont," Marietta B. Amy, 35 Elm St.

THE OPEN LISTING

When you place your home with a broker to sell, it's known in the trade as "listing." Basically, there are three types of listing agreements and your rights and obligations vary with each type. Let's discuss the "open listing" today.

As the name implies, it is open to everyone. You agree to pay the broker a commission if, and only if, he sells the property. But you reserve the right to hire other brokers or to sell the house yourself.

It sounds good on paper -- but is probably the most ineffective arrangement to make if you really want to sell your home in a reasonable amount of time and expect a broker's full efforts, for at any juncture he can lose the sale to another broker or to the owner himself.

It also opens the door to "in-fighting" and "end runs" by all parties.

Memorial Hall Library

Art Festival

Memorial Hall Library is now preparing to celebrate with you the coming of spring, the arrival of the birds, the opening of the buds and the greening of Andover.

During the month of May we will present the second annual Library Festival of the Arts. Performances by local musicians will take place on Monday evenings, May 1, May 8, May 15 and May 22. Demonstrations of arts and crafts will be held on Tuesdays and Wednesdays following those dates. Over thirty individual artists will be giving of their talents and time to this Festival, as well as two well known singing groups, the A Cappella Choir from the High School, and The Towns-Men. All programs will be held in the upstairs hall.

The Art Festival is presenting two skilled musicians on the opening night May 1 at 7:30. Mrs. Barbara Myers of Boxford is going to sing a series of baroque and folk musical numbers to the accompaniment of the harpsichord, played by its builder, Donald Ketzler. Mrs. Myers, who lives with her husband and three children on Valley Road, Boxford received her degree in music from Susquehanna University. After their marriage, the Myers moved to Boxford and Barbara began serious voice study with Madame Grace Leslie of Salisbury. She has sung in many church choirs in this area as soloist, including Old South Church in Andover and the North Parish Church in North Andover. Mr. Ketzler lives with his wife and four children on River Road. Employed in Boston, Mr. Ketzler has the week-end job of organist at Cavalry Baptist Church. He constructed his harpsichord himself and played it at the library during the first Art Festival last year.

All music lovers in Andover and the neighboring towns will appreciate this lovely concert which will last about forty-five minutes, beginning at 7:30 on May 1.

On Tuesday evening, May 2, from 7 to 9 p.m., three Andover ladies will execute their crafts for all to watch. Mrs. Betty Moore, 56 Marilyn Drive, will do a painting in pastels. Mrs. Shirley McDowell, 19 Osgood St. will demonstrate the art of macrame, and Mrs. Joan Wilde, 3 Chandler Circle, will bring her pottery wheel and show the audience how her ceramics are made.

Again on Wednesday evening there will be more demonstrations. Mrs. Reste Dubose, 17 Wolcott Ave., will paint and Mrs. Jane Tombore, 198 Summer St. will work in oils. Two North Andover artists, Mrs. Barbara Brown will show how she makes rugs and Mrs. Mirium Aubry will demonstrate silk-screening.

Get in the habit of dropping in at the library every show night during May, Mondays for music and Tuesday and Wednesday for arts and crafts.

David Sullivan

Many people say David Sullivan is Andover's finest artist. The library is proud to present an exhibit of his paintings in honor of the opening of our own Art Festival. These paintings come to Memorial Hall Library immediately from the artist's own exhibition in the Andover Gallery. Born in Boston in 1941, Mr. Sullivan studied art at the Chouinard School of Fine Art in Los Angeles, Calif. and at the Museum School of Fine Arts in Boston after taking his A.B. degree in Philosophy at the University of New Hampshire. He has received many Gold Medals and Awards at the art shows where he has exhibited throughout the United States. His latest Gold Medal was awarded in 1972 at the show of the Audubon Artists of America, National Academy of Design, N.Y. Childrens Room

Congratulations to Scriveners Patrick McLarney, Steven Zajt, Ronnie Welch and Maura Aumais, who won prizes awarded in the Grades 1-3 and Grades 4-6 divisions of the sidewalk chalk art contest held Saturday. Nearly thirty-five young artists turned out for the contest, which had been postponed from Thursday because of rain, and subject matter ranged from the flag to the sunflowers, birds, and animals, to . . . you name it! Many thanks to all the fine artists who contributed their talents to the decoration of Essex Street!

Thanks, also, to those who supported an exciting and unusual program presented Thursday evening by Alfred Olschewski, author and illustrator of Winterbird, We Fly, and The Wheel Rolls Over. Mr. Olschewski demonstrated a knowing way with children when he allowed them to become the artists of the moment in creating a beautiful chalk mural that was to highlight the Children's Room for a few days. The chalk talk "christened" the new harlequin-design carpet recently installed in the Children's Room, so color was the keynote during National Library Week!

Those who have taken entry blanks for the "If I Were The Artist Contest" are reminded that they must be returned to the Library by Monday, May 1, so that they may be sent to the judging headquarters in Virginia. Make sure your name and address is filled in on the entry blank - then wait to see if you'll win an en-

cyclopedial

Dramarama II begins this Saturday, April 29, with Grades 1-3 meeting from 10-11 a.m. and Grades 4-6 meeting from 2-3 p.m. Children interested in this improvisational drama group are asked to sign the registration card on the Children's Room door. Registration for the PJ Party for preschoolers (which begins next Wednesday, May 3) is also on the door. Please sign the list if your child plans to attend, since it will be necessary to order supplies sufficient to meet the needs of the group.

For information about the other Spring Fling programs, including the title and time for next week's Film Frolic, please pick up a calendar at your school library or at Memorial Hall.

Next Step

Town meeting season has ended with the spring harvest of 54 articles and those Andover citizens who pitched in so faithfully through five sessions are to be commended for their forbearance.

Not everyone was happy with all of the results, but at least, the presence of quorums afforded all those interested enough to show up an opportunity to be heard. And that is what town government under the annual meeting system is all about.

Now comes the question, what does this all mean to the taxpayer?

The figure $5 has been mentioned in guesses about the possible increase over the present rate of $46 per $1,000 valuation.

At this point, only the brave would venture to hazard a flat estimate.

Spring Offensive

For the next month, Andover will be participating with other cities and towns in a massive clean-up, pick up program that the Federal Environmental Agency and the Commonwealth have organized.

It deserves the support of everyone in town, from youngsters on up.

Andover is particularly fortunate in having such organizations as the Andover Village Improvement Society and Andover Ecology Action to provide the leadership. The two groups are made up of a good cross section of concerned older citizens and energetic young people, who have the enthusiasm and drive to keep the spring offensive on offensive sights moving.

And it is not all drudgery.

On May 6, there is to be a Fun Day on the Shawsheen River, with canoe races open to all as contestants or observers.

The message behind the program is to demonstrate how pleasant it is to live in a community that has such a stream and to encourage people to keep the river and the rest of the environment clean for everyone.

Culture Is In

There certainly can be no complaint about a lack of cultural attractions in the Merrimack Valley these spring days.

The Lawrence General Hospital Aid Association revived the tradition of a "Follies" production after a hiatus of 15 years over last weekend.

The seventh annual arts festival at the Unitarian Universalist Church also opened for an eight-day run.

The music department of Phillips Academy offered a piano concert on Sunday, while the Glee Club of Bradford College presented a public concert of sacred music at Christ Church the same night.

Tomorrow and Friday nights of this week, the town's new cultural enterprise, the Andover Community Theater - ACT - has its maiden effort, a stage production, "George Washington Slept Here." This is a particularly brave effort in community participation. It will help answer the question: can a tiny group of long-time residents stimulate enough enthusiasm among younger folks to make a community theater a viable enterprise?

Enough interest in participatory recreation and culture, such as camping, musical concerts, stage productions, might just create the kind of a revolution that might make professional sports promoters review their long schedule commitments.

Nearly everyone knows what it is like to pay interest on debt. Nearly every family makes interest-bearing payments on a car, on a home or some other item. No one escapes the necessity of paying interest when they borrow money. It is the wage that money earns for people who have savings to invest.

Off The Top Of The Desk

Just a reminder. Set the clocks ahead an hour Saturday night before retiring so that you will awaken to daylight saving time.

That hour of sleep you'll be losing this weekend will be gained back next October.

How blasé we can become is most evident in the progress of Apollo 16.

The first moon shot captivated the attention of all and took prime space in the media.

With the initial mission accomplished, the subsequent moon voyages have evoked a decreasing attentiveness, despite their continued importance, as well as concern for the safety of the astronauts.

It certainly is a small world. While vacationing in Spain a week ago, the writer met the William D. Martins of West Parish Drive and the Lawrence LaLondes of Rasmussen Circle enjoying the Costa Del Sol atmosphere, along with the Dennis Connells of North Andover.

After a diet of football, basketball and in particular hockey for these past several months, doesn't the telecast of major league baseball seem rather drab?

For the statistically minded, the following information is offered by the census bureau.

There are 216,201 housing units in Essex County and 196,822 of them have at least one television set, according to 1970 census figures.

What Our Readers Say:

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN: I wish to thank the citizens of Andover for their strong vote of confidence demonstrated at Town Meeting, April 10.

The decision to give us land for a health facility was, indeed, gratifying. Our long search for available land has now come to an end and we hope, quite soon, to begin designing and constructing this facility.

The town has granted us an ideal site for this medical complex because its citizens recognize an urgent need and because they placed a trust in our aims as stated at Town Meeting. We accept this trust as our most binding obligation and again thank each citizen for his endorsement and encouragement.

George D. LeMaitre, M.D.
339 Haverhill Street
Lawrence

To the Editor of the TOWNSMAN: What would the pupil think if the teacher's theme were "Time is short. We have other things to do. Anyhow, this is no place to be working and learning?"

Town meeting 1972 provided another record of puzzlement by those who claim open town meeting is peerless compared to representative. When the going got tough, when thought was needed to measure proposals against those cut and dried by the authorities, the plea of the open town meeting folks was, oddly enough, that the floor of town meeting was no place to delve into the merits of a proposal, that food for thought was confusing to them and, worse still, constantly in the background was the theme that there is really not time enough to give the meeting a chance to understand what is the

There were 37,381 units with air conditioning, 144,326 with a clothes washing machine, 76,857 with a dryer and 38,436 with a dishwasher.

The 1970 population of the county was 637,887.

Farming in the county is on the decline as evidenced by the 1969 census on agriculture figures which show there were 407 farms in operation as compared to 634 in 1964.

This year the State DPW will mow up to 60,000 acres of roadside along 2650 miles of state highway to make the highways safer as well as more pleasant in appearance. Public Works Commissioner Bruce Campbell has announced.

The mowing, repeated 5 times a year, involves the cutting of grass at roadsides and in median strips, adjacent to 1600 miles of steel guard rail, and along another 1600 miles of drainage ditches. Roadside width may be as much as thirty feet from the edge of the pavement.

The grass mowing provides improved sight-distance for motorists, marks pavement edges and curbs clearly, and prevents guard rails from being obscured by growth.

The need to keep drainage ditches clear is particularly important. Unless ditches are kept clear through mowing, the use of soil sterilants and by occasional cleaning, water normally carried off could collect on the highway and become a serious safety hazard.

The DPW has advertised for bids on 97 separate contracts for mowing throughout the state. Forty-six of these will be for a two-year period, the balance for one year. The annual cost will be approximately $800,000.

privilege desired let alone what will be the consequence. All in all, both democracy and principle had few friends.

Another oddity, accepted by the Selectmen without a word as they sat above the voters racked by inadequate equipment, and seating arrangements seemingly designed to make it difficult to get to the microphone, is the rule that amendments on a screen beside the Article to which it applies. Hence few get the gist of what is being proposed. Tolerating such a set of circumstances can hardly be squared with those who say they have faith in town meeting.

It is proposed by way of starting toward a goal where voters are adequately provided for so that town meeting has the capacity to do what is required, that a rule be made that no article, or part of it shall be discussed for more than one hour. After that it shall be set aside and returned to in not less than 2 hours. Cooler thoughts might then prevail.

Provision should also be made for having an adequate screen and projector for displaying all written amendments as well as line and figure work that a speaker may wish to present.

As it is, town meeting has some of the aspects, particularly when line and figure work is used, of being rude and rustic. Yet not one selectman has ever had the initiative, let alone the good grace and thoughtfulness for the voters, to make it a project to correct this growing sore of Andover Town Meetings.

Down the Years with The Townsman

75 Years Ago - April, 1897

Notices have been posted by Police Chief Mears regulating the speed of bicycles at not more than 10 miles an hour. The penalty is a fine not to exceed $20. Persons playing ball in the street will be summarily dealt with.

The days of the old "bone shaker" are vividly brought to mind by the exhibition of one in front of H. A. McLawlin's Hardware Store. It has been in Poor's blacksmith shop for many years. The difference between it and a modern safety is so marked as to make one wonder how it was possible to ride the old velocipede.

Work commenced Monday morning on the installation of a fire alarm system. A gang of men from the Gamewell Company and Hardy and Cole have been engaged in putting extensions on telegraph poles. The striker at the engine house is also being put in good shape, accounting for all of the strokes of the bell that have been heard in the last week.

Last Saturday, which was Arbor Day appointed by His Excellency, Governor Walcott, was observed by many in Andover.

L. H. Eames is having a new piazza built on his house by Hardy and Cole. They are also making repairs on James N. Smart's house on the hill.

50 Years Ago - April, 1922

Beginning with three alarms on Monday, the firemen have had a busy week. Seven alarms were the record for Wednesday. All were for brush and grass fires, Box 66 being rung in by a small boy inadvisedly directed to do so by an older person. This gave the ladder company a long run for no purpose whatever as it was a second alarm for a brush fire on Magnolia avenue, Shawsheen.

J. Percy Roberts, State Prohibition Officer, was in town on Thursday.

Mrs. Arthur Jackson underwent a successful operation at the Anderson sanitarium on Maple avenue last Saturday.

The lighting committee met last Friday night and signed a one-year contract with the Lawrence Gas Company, its terms being the same as those of last year.

The Lawrence General Hospital Sewing Society will hold its last meeting of the season at the Forest st. Union Church, Methuen, next Tuesday at 2 p.m. A Forest st. car at Lawrence will accommodate persons from Andover.

Mable M. Carter returned on Saturday to her home on Bartlett st. after a visit of five months with her brother, Edward C. Carter, in London, followed by a two week tour of Germany, France and Belgium where she visited the battle areas of Ypres and the Marne.

25 Years Ago - April, 1947

Miss Janice Driscoll of Maple ave., a student at the College of Saint Elizabeth, N.J., has just received a three month complete scholarship for the Pine Tree Playhouse in Belgrade, Maine, where she will play in summer stock after her graduation in June.

The Andover Red Cross Fund is officially closed and Philip F. Ripley, treasurer, announces a return from the drive of $12,780.76.

Dr. Carl F. Pfatteicher, head of the music department at Phillips Academy, will retire next month after rounding out 35 years of service.

Mrs. Marion (Fettes) MacLachlan of 22 Haverhill st., Shawsheen, has been awarded a Carnegie Medal in national recognition of her rescue of three children at Salisbury Beach last summer.

A son has been born to Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Chmielecki of High Plain road, at Lawrence General Hospital.

PREPARING for the standard flower show to be held as part of the annual open house program at Essex Agricultural and Technical Institute, Hathorne, Saturday and Sunday are, left to right, Mrs. Horace M. Poynter, Jr., Mrs. Robert Lange, chairman of the flower show; Mrs. Ralph H. Hill, all of Andover and Mrs. Irving W. Mack of Lawrence.

Weather Theme For Show

"New England Weather" is the theme of the standard flower show to be staged in Alumni Memorial Gymnasium during the 58th annual open house program on April 29 and 30.

Under the direction of Mrs. Robert H. Lange, chairman, members of the Northern and Northeastern Districts of the Garden Club Federation of Massachusetts will again transform the center of the building into a colorful display with cut flower arrangements and potted plants.

As a standard show, there will be six major divisions. The artistic division will have six classes and club members will be competing for the Tricolor Award. Visitors can learn much about arranging flowers, not only from viewing the designs, but from the judges' comments on each design.

The experienced, as well as the amateur gardener, will see specimen plants and individual flowers grown to perfection and exhibited for their horticultural excellence. Many kinds of house plants, flowering shrubs, trees and bulbs will be entered in the horticulture division.

Two educational divisions,

"Weather" and "Garden Therapy" will have vital messages for all Americans. Learn what you can do to help combat the ever-increasing menace of litter along our highways.

The artistic division for juniors will show how youngsters interpret New England weather. Children will have the opportunity of competing in six artistic design classes. A new feature in this year's show is a junior horticulture division.

There will be something of interest for every member of the family at the horticultural show.

NEW MEMBERS of the Shawsheen Village Womens Club were welcomed at an orientation tea held Wednesday, April 19 at the home of Mrs. Marco Pettoruto. The new members, left to right, Mrs. Joan Hoffman, Mrs. Barbara Chernak, Mrs. Anne Williams, Mrs. Salvatore Basile, Mrs. Peggy Tatum, Mrs. Roberta Lang, Mrs. Linda Galgay and Mrs. Betty McKissack. Bancroft Students On Science Trip

Sixty-six students from Loft 5 at Bancroft School enjoyed a three day science trip to Beaver Brook Environment Education Center, located in an area just west of Hollis, N.H. The trip was sponsored by the Ecology Club of Andover High School, under the direction of Philip Nelson, with the cooperation of Earl E. Simon, principal of Bancroft School, and Miss Susan Wolman of the school faculty.

The center, which was formerly a farm, is in the process of being developed as an educational center. Located there are the director's residence; the barn, which is an assembly and function building; and a new resource building, currently under construction. Facilities in this building will include a laboratory, dark room, natural resources library, and a bunkroom for visiting students or other researchers.

About a quarter of a mile away is the Outpost area, which is represented by two cabins and accompanying facilities. These are furnished with bunks, wood cook-stoves and tables providing an opportunity for young people to get away from civilization, while at the same not unnecessarily limiting the time to observe and appreciate the natural world around them.

At the top of the hill, is the Lodge, a fifteen room dwelling. Plans are now being made to convert this into a conference center with overnight and dining facilities.

EXPLAINING some of his views in proposing an amendment to the proposed school renovation article at the final session of town meeting last week was John Wragg of 10 Standish Circle. He is shown using the Vugraph to present his point.

Hawk, Owl Banding Discussed

The Merrimack Valley Bird Club held its annual meeting recently. The speaker for the evening was John Campbell of Andover who spoke of his banding of hawks and owls. His slides depicted how he sets up his tall, fine meshnets, attaches a live lure to a line which will allow it to be pulled up into the air to attract a hawk's attention to their blind.

He and Michael Olmstead of Bedford spent many days this past fall on Holt Hill watching for migrating hawks. Their observations along with other such similar ones along the Atlantic Coastal region are being tabulated to give ornithologists a clearer picture of the migration pattern these birds of prey follow.

From Sept. 27 - Nov. 14, they spotted 294 different birds from that one spot. Both men are also interested in finding the nests of hawks and owls in this area so that they can band the young. There is approximately a 20 percent return rate for banded birds of prey which is a very high rate compared to other groups. The size of the birds plus the fact that some are accidentally shot by people who are not familiar enough with birds are two reasons John Campbell feels the rate is so high.

He is setting up nesting boxes for Sparrow Hawks and Screech Owls. Some of the biology students at the high school are assisting him by building the boxes and setting them out.

The club elected Albert Retelle, president; Mrs. Juliet Kellogg, secretary-treasurer; and Mrs. Dana Duxbury, recorder. It agreed to take part in the Spring Offensive by providing members with litter bags to collect the rubbish found during their spring walks.

An invitation is extended to all people in the Greater Lawrence region to attend their Sunday 6-8 a.m. bird walks which begin on April 30 and continue through May. The first walk will begin on the west side of the Rte. 93 bridge on High Plain Road in Andover. Daniel Keleher and Kenneth Folsom will be the leaders.

Auction Articles Arriving

Silver, furniture, antiques and linens for the May 4 Silent Auction to finance the cleanup of Rabbit Pond have been coming in to the Andover Inn, drop-off point for contributions for this ecological effort.

Committees of local women are aiding the Ladies' Benevolent Society, the PA faculty wives' group sponsoring the event. The Silent Auction will be held next Thursday morning from 10:30 - 12:30, at Peabody House, Phillips Street, at the corner of Main St.

A preview of the auction articles is set for Wednesday evening, May 3, 8 - 10 p.m. Refreshments will be served both Wednesday evening and next morning at the auction itself. The donation for the preview also covers attendance at the Auction, according to co-chairmen Mrs. C. W. Bailey and Mrs. Thomas Cone.

Auction items already contributed include a sterling silver coffee service, Venetian glass liquor glasses, a mahogany dining room table, a handsome mirror, china dessert dishes and several conversation pieces - for example, colorful batches of stock in an extinct mining company Cripple Creek, Colo.

Mrs. Cone emphasized that more donations of desirable items in excellent condition are needed, to make the Silent Auction a complete success. China, glass, linens, lamps, furniture, handiwork, garden furniture and tools are among suggested items.

These may be left at the Andover Inn each day including the weekend, from 9:30 - 11:30 a.m. and from 3 - 5 p.m. Members of a committee under Mrs. George Sanborn will be on hand to receive them.

Mrs. Bailey said it was important to get articles in by the first of the week, if possible, to aid setting up arrangements. Contributors may call Mrs. Bailey or Mrs. Cone, or any faculty wife, for pickup, if Inn delivery is inconvenient.

At a silent auction, each item has a paper beside it on which a bidder signs her name and her bid, which must be higher than the bid of the previous name on the list. A bidder can return to bid again on any article. At the end of the two hours of bidding, with refreshments served throughout, each auction item goes to the last name on its paper -- and thus to the highest bidder. Payment is cash or check, at the auction.

Assisting the faculty wives in auction preparations are Mrs. Robert L. V. French, Mrs. John Kimball and Mrs. Samuel S. Rogers, to contact alumni and parents in the area.

Their committees include Mrs. Harry Axelrod, Mrs. George Bixby, Mrs. Wallace Bolton, Mrs. Robert Clark, Mrs. Michael Goriansky, Mrs. Michael Gravelle, Mrs. S. Leonard Kent, Mrs. Jack Kyger, Mrs. David Morton, Mrs. George Patterson and Mrs. Melvin Weiner.

Chairman of contributions is Mrs. Simeon Hyde of the Ladies' Benevolent Society. Mrs. James Grew is in charge of Special Gifts, with Mrs. Joshua Miner, III, and Mrs. Clement Morell in general charge of the Greater Lawrence area.

Mrs. Hale Sturges, II, is treasurer of the Rabbit Pond Improvement Fund, Mrs. William Shroud, II, publicity, and Mrs. George Sanborn, storage of auction items, and Mrs. Alexander Z. Warren, appraising and setting up the items. Mrs. F. Peter Dzwonkowski, Jr. is chairman of the cleanup committee.

Mrs. K. Kelly Wise will be in charge of refreshments, Mrs. Thomas T. Lyons, hostesses, and Mrs. Peter Q. McKee in charge of plants and flowers.

The Silent Auction's aim -- to clean up Rabbit Pond for school and town use -- was praised this week by Raymond Hoyer, 66 Wildwood Road. Hoyer said he planned the two ponds, and fencing of the Cochran Bird Sanctuary bordering the pond some 34 years ago, and knows Rabbit Pond intimately. "That pond was clear as a bell in 1928. It's a wonderful idea to clean it up again, and I hope some of the things I remember about it can help."

Peregrines May Return To N.E. Skies

The fierce wild dive of the peregrine falcon yet may be restored to New England skies, according to the Massachusetts Audubon Society.

Strangely, the birds, which symbolize wildness, may come from an incubator. While it may seem impossible to believe that wildness could come from the same sources that produce poultry, Dr. Tom J. Cade who heads the peregrine breeding project at Cornell University, has an impressive plan. In its final stages, several years away, young peregrines will be reared in nests in the open, fed by humans whom they never see, and finally fly away free wild birds.

Peregrine falcons, until 20 years ago, bred in the Northeast. Quite suddenly, the birds disappeared. The loss has been blamed on DDT which accumulates in the birds' systems, reduces their fertility and causes them to lay soft-shelled eggs which break before hatching.

Dr. Cade's project involves breeding captive falcons whose diet is protected from DDT. Present lower use of hard pesticides suggests that in a few years DDT may be phased out of the environment. If this happens, peregrine falcons should be able to live again in the Northeast. Meanwhile the problem is to keep a breeding stock of peregrines alive until they can be released in a clean environment.

To keep peregrines alive and healthy, the project has 38 huge pens, two stories high, in which it now houses falcons, hawks, and eagles. Unfortunately, the public cannot see the laboratory. Part of the program lies in keeping the birds either separated from all persons -- or, in the case of tame birds -- only one person.

Since peregrines in the wild mate only after spirited flying that proves their aerial skill, many persons have supposed that such displays were necessary. A visit to Ithaca refuted that theory for a society observer. A pair of prairie falcons, close relatives of the peregrine, had produced a fertile egg.

One could observe the prairie falcon nest through a one-way window (you can see the birds but they cannot see you). On a platform high in the flight pen the prairie falcons had scraped together a nest. Neither of the pair ever had seen an egg before. The female at first seemed relieved, perhaps that sitting on the scrape nest had stilled a restlessness within her. Then she discovered the salmon-colored egg, about half the size of a hen's egg.

The discovery caused the female great excitement. She inspected the egg carefully, almost as though someone unknown to her had placed it there. She did, however, seem to consider it a thing of great value. She began screaming to the male in typical falcon noisiness. He flew to the nest, inspected the egg and became rather ecstatic. Through the remainder of the day, the female spent brief periods of warming the egg. Whenever she left the nest, the male would fly to it, hover over the egg and busily rearrange the bits of sand and gravel around the egg.

Seldom have men had the opportunity of observing from a couple feet away the behaviour of falcons who have seen their own egg for the first time.

Golf Program Concludes

The Andover YMCA Spring Term golf instruction program has come to an end. Twelve five-lesson courses were conducted by pro Billy Lodge with a total of 20 sessions. All classes met in the Andover YMCA gym. Eighty-seven individuals were enrolled and total attendance was 395.

Planners Approve Request

The Merrimack Valley Planning Commission has approved the submission of request for $210,000 in Federal Grant money for Water Management Planning. The funds are to cover two years of planning activities and a third year of action.

The application is for participation in the statewide pilot program announced by Governor Francis W. Sargent. The application is the result of two months' effort by the Commission staff in association with 11 other regions, a half dozen state agencies, and two Federal agencies.

The Massachusetts Water Quality Management Planning Project is a pilot project to test a new approach to planning. It seeks to develop an integrated statewide planning program for urban growth, economic development, and water quality management.

Alumnus Nominated

Perry J. Lewis, a vice president and director of the investment banking firm of Smith, Barney and Co., Inc., has been nominated to fill a vacancy on the board of directors of Combined Insurance Company of America.

Lewis, 34, Lake Forest, Ill., attended Eaglebrook Elementary School, Deerfield, and Phillips Academy. He is a Princeton graduate, class of 1959.

Milk Largest Farm Industry

Did you know that the production of milk is our state's largest agricultural industry? According to the Massachusetts Department of Agriculture, fresh whole milk and associated products produced on Massachusetts farms amount to a $48 million annual industry.

Most dairy farms are still family operations, including one in Bridgewater which is considered the largest dairy under one roof in the world. Each day at this one dairy, 1290 cows are milked by the latest scientifically designed milking machines and other equipment.

A recent census placed the state's cow population at something over 55,000 with Westport, Dartmouth and Sheffield having the greatest number of the contented animals.

The strictest sanitary conditions are maintained on every Bay State dairy farm and regular state inspections maintain high standards. Milking room floors are scrubbed twice each day along with spotless production rooms and equipment.

The bulk of Massachusetts' milk production arrives at your market's dairy case in the familiar cartons as fresh as it can possibly be. In addition some of our state's milk production is turned into tangy cheese and butter, and of course, the many different varieties of ice cream that everybody loves.

Best buys this week include McIntosh, Cortland and Red Delicious apples. Stored in a carefully controlled atmosphere, they're as fresh as the day they were picked last fall. Greenhouse cucumbers and spring dug parsnips rate as good buys this week too. From Massachusetts' poultry farms, fresh turkeys, broilers, and eggs are very reasonable, and all are high in protein... something to keep in mind during these days of high meat prices.

Although it's still a little early to plant home gardens, you should begin turning over the soil to allow it to dry. Take your time, spading a little area each day. Tilling the soil after a wet winter is an exhausting task... so don't over-do it.

Your Traditionally Trustworthy Ford Dealer For Over 30 Years

25 years in the making.

We'd like to thank the makers of the other new economy cars for giving us such a nice head start.

It gave us time to develop an inspection system so ridiculously scrupulous that it expects every VW to pass 16,000 examinations.

It allowed us to find out (at a reasonably scientific pace) how we could double our horsepower without doubling the cost of your horsepower. (The VW still gets about 26 miles to the gallon and requests only a smidgen of oil.)

It permitted us to work on things that didn't even have to do with the actual making of the car. Medi-car, the Volkswagen Diagnosis System, for example. Electronic equipment that can spot trouble in a car before it gets to be trouble. When you buy a new VW, you get 4 free Medi-car checkups.

Of course, it took great fortitude to resist squandering our time on phony styling improvements.

The beetle looks just as good (or bad) as it did 25 years ago.

PREPARING for the canoe races scheduled for May 6 on the Shawsheen river under the sponsorship of the Andover Village Improvement Society are Peter McKee, Jr. and Peter McKee, while Mrs. Victor Duxbury watches from shore.

River Races Scheduled

The second annual canoe and kayak races on the Shawsheen River will take place on Saturday, May 6 rain or shine. The races will be sponsored by the Andover Village Improvement Society.

All the contestants are asked to report to Horn Bridge at 9:30. The first race will begin at 10 in Ballardvale behind the Microwave Company off Dale St. This race is for novices and they will be paddling with the current.

The second race for Intermediate Groups will start at noon from the Abbot (Horn) Bridge and travel to Ballardvale and back.

The third race for more serious races will begin at Abbot bridge and travel up to the Route 93 bridge and then back to the Abbot bridge with two portages. There will be different classes for each race - men, women, mixed doubles, children, etc. The prizes will be awarded at the bridge about 3:30. The town of Andover's Selectmen's Prize will be awarded to the winners of the third race. Other prizes will be awarded in each category.

Life preservers are required to be worn by all racers.

Everyone is welcome to come and watch the races and to picnic on the banks of the Shawsheen at Abbot bridge which is part of one of the AVIS's reservations. These races are part of the month long program in the Spring Offensive which is sponsored by AVIS and the Andover Ecology Action. Those wishing to take part in the races are asked to contact Peter McKee, Al Koch or Phil Dargy who are trustees of AVIS and in charge of the races.

Bazaar Planning Underway

The selectmen Monday night approved a request from the Andover Chamber of Commerce to conduct their annual sidewalk bazaar on Friday and Saturday, June 23 and 24 in downtown Andover.

The annual event, a highlight of the chamber's yearly activities bringing together Andover's merchants, industry, civic and service organizations, will be under the chairmanship of Charles Heseltine this year.

Bazaar applications will shortly be sent to local civic, service, fraternal and church organizations. Any new group or organization wishing to participate in the bazaar should contact Chairman Heseltine at Dana's Sport Shop before May 24.

Honored At UMass

The University of Massachusetts Amherst chapter of the national scholastic honor society Alpha Lambda Delta has initiated 178 UMass freshmen women for high achievement during the first semester of or first year of college. Among the new members were Barbara L. Acton and Marcie Rhys of Andover.

Single men accounted for 43 percent of the annual increase in the labor force for the year ending March 1971.
